WILSON SECURES RESULTS ON TRIP INTO FARGO CITIES

League of nations, was exactly what the folk here wanted to learn about first hand.

And the president's picture of the war the United States is economically entangled in the world's affairs and his prediction that America would be financially ruined if Europe went bankrupt and could not pay for her purchases in the American market struck home.

This is the territory of the Nonpartisan league, and Gov. Fraser, who may be the league's presidential candidate, presided at the Wilson meeting. Mr. Wilson didn't miss words in his description of the horrors of Bolshevism and his denunciation of any protests that would lead to public disorder.

Those who have been thinking the Nonpartisan league exhibited symptoms of eventual Bolshevism were of course pleased and those inside the Nonpartisan league who don't believe their program has anything in common with the soviet of Russia were of course not disturbed by the influence.

On the other hand, it is noticeable in all the president's recent speeches that he fears Bolshevism may supercede public order in Europe and that industrial revolution may even spread elsewhere if the peace is long delayed and if the processes of economic disintegration are stimulated by uncertainty and prolonged doubt as to the part which America may play in world's affairs.

The president dramatically exclaimed at Bismarck that the delay in ratifying the treaty was "injuring the whole world and ourselves." He tried to dissuade his hearers of the notion that the war is over because fighting has ceased. He professed perfectly over the attitude of the senate. He closed to have secured the adoption at Paris of all the suggestions made by the senate foreign relations committee in March by which he means of the course that the various topics on which reservations are now sought by some Republican senators are fully covered in the language used in the treaty, and he said his audience to believe that Europe meant no trick and that language is language the world over and English text is incontrovertible.

To be sure, the president is stirring up renewed interest in the treaty and league. Only once and intransigent ideas of what the fuss in the senate is all about have prevailed. The speaker's trains came from all parts of North Dakota carrying farmers who wanted to hear Mr. Wilson.

Bismarck, with only 75,000 population, seemed crowded. Motor cars from nearby farms and villages jammed the thoroughfares, and the newspapers printed in display type every word of the president's speech.

There is no question about the effect. Mr. Wilson by virtue of his high office gets attention and publicity which critics of the league do not get. He is driving home the impression that he is aiming to secure world peace and the people hereabout need to be reminded of the horrors of the recent war to shudder at the prospect of more conflict in a disturbed world. Perhaps the most effective question which the president, after admitting that the covenant of the league was an experiment, asks of his audiences is this: "If you knew that the covenant made the chance of war last probably by only 10 per cent, wouldn't it be worth trying?" And his audience shouted an affirmative answer. If Mr. Wilson had held the covenant up as an absolute guarantee against war he would not have been so persuasive hereabout. He simply contends that whereas the old order has produced the most terrible war in history, the league of nations may succeed in making war violently impossible. With the analysis of the league in articles and the many phases of the treaty, the people in this region are not familiar and seem to care less. They are impressed by the general principles and purposes. And when the president insists that the covenant provides nine months of pleasure may be sold off, his homely illustrations do not fail to make an impression. If the president does as well in other states as he is doing in the Northwest, he will have created a powerful sentiment by the time he returns to Washington. (Copyright 1914, by David Lawrence.)

HONDURAN REBELS

CLOSE IN UPON CITY

SAN SALVADOR, Sept. 12.—Honduran revolutionary forces appear to be closing in on Tegucigalpa, the capital, from the west and south, according to an official statement from revolutionary headquarters which have been received here. The rebels have also been successful in the northern part of the country.

The statement says the cities of Santa Barbara and Yucatan and towns in the state of Interoceanic have been taken by the rebels, who are within 10 miles of Tegucigalpa. Further north the city of San Pedro has been taken, the statement says, and the retreat of government forces toward Puerto Cortes, La Ceiba and Trujillo has been cut off. Various encounters and other points between the government troops and the revolutionary forces are reported.

WANTS TO HUNT WIFE AND TOTS IN TURKEY

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—Telling officials at the federal building that he wanted to go back to Turkey to find his wife, who was sold into a Turkish harem five years ago, Isadore Derr Boghos, an Armenian, applied for a passport here. He also said he wanted to find his two children held in bondage somewhere in the Ottoman empire.

Boghos made his way here and found his son, and now he wants to go back to Turkey and hunt for the other members of his family.

HOW A YOUNG GIRL SUFFERED

And Was Restored to Health By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Told By Her Mother.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound enough for what it has done for my daughter. She was 15 years of age, very sickly and pale and she had to stay home from school most of the time. She suffered agonies from backache and dizziness and was without appetite. For three months she was under the doctor's care and got no better, always complaining about her back and side aching so I didn't know what to do. I read in the papers about your wonderful medicine, so I made up my mind to try it. She has taken five bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and doesn't complain any more with her back and side aching. She has gained in weight and feels much better. I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all mothers and daughters.—Mrs. J. F. Jones, 214 Macy Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

South Shown As In Business Boom By U. S. Reports

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Optimistic notes of conditions in the South are contained in the weekly report on traffic by the director-general of railroads, who says revenue freight loaded in the Southern region for the week ending Sept. 8 showed an increase of 3,507 cars over the corresponding week of last year, and 10,973 cars over the week ending Sept. 1, this year. General business conditions, he says, have not improved very much and buying is limited owing to uncertainty of prices and labor.

Movement of export coal through Charleston, S. C., is improving going mostly to Cuba and France. The Birmingham iron and steel districts send satisfactory and encouraging reports with 21 furnaces now in blast and only 14 out.

Strike conditions in the Florida phosphate fields have improved and the movement of phosphate rock has increased.

Reports indicate that 31 additional hotels will be erected in Florida, 14 of them in Miami.

Travel continues normal and ample equipment has been available through the Southern region. In the Potomac region 25 extra sleeping cars were operated during the recent points. Passenger traffic on coastwise ships is increasing.

Indications are that it will be necessary to increase sailing between Savannah and New York from two to three weeks to take care of the fall cotton movement.

Exports of coal from Newport News have been large.
